Amendment

Amendment to Clarify Major Codes to Approved Program (Approved at Jan 2021 UCC meeting)
Online MBA (MB6155) and Professional MBA (MB6146)- The College of Business (CoB) proposed a new concentration called Project Management within the Online MBA (formerly MB6155) and Professional MBA (formerly MB6146) programs. Currently, there are eight concentrations in our MBA program. Thus, Project management would be the ninth concentration in our MBA programs.

Though the same concentrations are offered within the Online MBA (MB6155) and Professional MBA (MB6146) programs, each concentration has a unique program code. In other words, a given concentration in the Online MBA program will have a different code in the Professional MBA program. In total, two new program codes are needed for the Project Management concentration. One program code will be for the Project Management concentration for the Online MBA program and the other program code will be for the Project Management concentration in our Professional MBA program. The following list summarizes our eight existing and our proposed concentrations with their associated program code for our Professional MBA program.

- Accounting (MB6154)
- Business Analytics (MB6159)
- Business Venturing (MB6169)
- Executive Management (MB6160)
- Finance (MB6161)
- Health Care (MB6162)
- Project Management (MB6185)
- Strategic Selling and Sales (MB6170)
- Supply Chain and Operations Management (MB6171)

The program change reduces the required number of credit hours from 42 to 36. This change is driven by a desire to reduce the program cost to students as well as provide flexibility for students who wish to enroll in additional graduate certificates that correspond to their individual interests. The proposal removes courses in leadership and career management and combines the Consulting Capstone and International Immersion learning outcomes into an integrated course. Courses previously listed under the MBA 6900 course code are assigned unique course numbers that correspond to the established learning outcomes.

The management department seeks changes to the Entrepreneurship Major to streamline the curriculum and create better opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration with the Entrepreneurship certificate students (which are all non-COB students). These changes, proposed by the faculty team in Entrepreneurship, eliminates electives, and instead has 6 required courses for the major. The Introduction to Entrepreneurship class is added to the curriculum; the capstone is changed to a more applied course; and the ACCT course is changed to a re-designed BUSL course.

Due to updating the BSM degree, the minor needed cleaning up to reflect any changes. There is no impact on program learning outcomes or assessment plans.

The required courses went from two to one (SASM 1010). SASM 1010 is a pre-requisite for many SASM courses. SASM 2250 was a BSM required course, and due to it moving to an elective, will not be offered every semester. SASM 1001 was eliminated as a required course since it will not be offered consistently due to the BRICKS changes (1001 was created as a Tier 2 course, so there is no need to offer it regularly)

• Electives moved from three to four required courses. The following courses were added to the elective list:

- SASM 2250
- SASM 3400

FIRST READING- NEW PROGRAM/ CERTIFICATE

1. College of Arts and Sciences

Program Code: NDAXX1

Program Name: Accelerated Graduate Pathway Psychology

Department: Psychology

Contact: Jeff Vancouver

After completing 75 credit hours, students will be able to apply and be granted conditional admission to the terminal master's degree program in Psychology. This means that the typical student will apply during the spring semester of their junior year. Ideally, students will complete PSY3110 (4 credits) or PSY6100/6111 (4 credits) during the fall semester of their senior year and PSY6112 (3 credits) and PSY6120 (3 credits) during the spring semester of their senior year. With the completion of these courses as well as the completion of PSY3940 or PSY6950 under their prospective faculty mentor, a student should be able to defend a thesis proposal by the fall semester of the following academic year, their first year as a graduate student. In the academic year following completion of their bachelor's degree in Psychology, students should be able to complete their thesis as well as additional graduate coursework to earn their MS in Psychological Science.

The Coaching Education (COED) minor program made a change to the program last academic year (2019-20) after faculty completed their seven-year periodic program selfstudy through the Patton College of Education Program Planning and Review Committee. However, it has come to light that two courses could be further added into the Coaching Electives section in order to assist both Regional Campus (RHE) course offerings, as well as further efficiencies in courses offered.

Changes:

1. Addition of SLS 3010 Ethics and Risk Management in Sport and Physical Activity to the Coaching Electives component of the Minor.
2. Addition of COED 4213 Dynamics of Skill Acquisition to the Coaching Electives component of the Minor
