Elizabeth Brown

KPVI TV reports that Ohio University alum Dr. Elizabeth Brown '95, an obstetrician and gynecologist, was hired by Glendive Medical Center in Montana.

She earned a B.S. in Biological Sciences Pre-Medicine from the College of Arts & Sciences at Ohio University.

“I am excited to begin practicing at Glendive Medical Center,” states Dr. Brown. “I grew up in Thermopolis, Wyoming and have practiced in Sheridan for the past five years. I am familiar with rural settings and am confident in my ability to provide all aspects of gynecology and obstetrics for women in the region”.

Dr. Brown earned her undergraduate degree in biology/pre-medicine at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio. She then earned her medical degree from the University of Washington in Seattle and completed her residency at the Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine at Marshall University. Dr. Brown is board certified and is a Fellow of American Congress of Obstetrics and Gynecology (FACOG). To become a fellow, physicians must meet additional criteria beyond education and residency and must keep abreast of the latest medical guidelines, treatments, and techniques in women's health care today.
