Assistant Professor at Mayo Clinic

"Speech pathology - let me exemplify on that. Patients who have speech disorders, patients who have cancer of their voice box and who have artificial voice box put in place, traditionally they have to come from their locations to a major medical center such as Mayo clinic because speech pathologists are very few and they are concentrated at major medical centers However we feel that using ACTS or ACTS-like technology, one can make that diagnosis remotely and one can also train these patients on how to use their voice box."
